SOME TIME—
 The night will round into the morn.
 The angry storm wind cease to blow.
 The patient bird preen his wet tired wing.
 Grief ceaseth when the babe is born.
 There comes an end to hardest thing.
 Some time—
 Some time, some far time, late but sweet.

I could not keep on with the fight;
 I could not face my want, my sin.
 The baffled hope, the urgent foe,
 The mighty wrong, the struggling right.
 Excepting that I surely know
 Some time—
 Some time, some dear time—
 I shall win.

I could not hold so sure, so fast,
 The truth which is to me so true,
 The truth which men deride and shun.
 Were I not sure it shall at last
 Be held as truth by every one
 Some time—
 Some time all men shall own it, too.

Some time the morning bells shall chime,
 Some time be heard the visitor's ring.
 Some time the hard goal be attained.
 The puzzles shall be clear some time.
 The tears all shed, the gains all gained.
 Some time—
 Oh, dear time, tarry not too long!

St. James Ladies' Missionary Meeting

The St. James Ladies' Missionary Society held a very enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. Randall Green of Route 5, Thursday. About forty members and visitors, attended the all-day meeting.
 The forenoon was spent in sewing and social chat. At noon all were invited to the dining room to enjoy the many good things included in the picnic dinner, the hostess serving hot biscuit, chicken and gravy and many other choice dishes.
 The afternoon program opened with singing "Christ for the World." The Seventh Psalm was read by the president, followed by prayer. The monthly lesson was then taken up, the topic being, "The Voice Within." Mrs. Shipple leading, assisted by others.
 A leaflet read by Mrs. Alger was much enjoyed, the title being, "The Thank Offering Box in One Family." One read by Mrs. Duffy, was also of much interest, the title being, "The Measure of the Gift."
 Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, followed by roll call. It was decided to send a box of clothing to the mountaineers of Virginia in the near future.
 As there was no further business, the meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

PREPARE FOR DINNER AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

The Ladies of the G. R. R. Circle will serve a picnic dinner Monday noon at St. Luke's Episcopal church to the Comrades, the Ladies of the G. A. R. Circle and their friends. The members are requested to take with them their dishes, silverware, sandwiches, and a serving of one other article of food, enough to serve ten.

SECTION 6 TO MEET WITH MRS. HARTZELL

Section No. 6 of the M. E. Aid Society will meet Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14th, with Mrs. W. D. Hartzell, 846 Brinton avenue. A large attendance of members is desired as there is sewing to be done for the bazaar to be held in December.

Another Group Meeting is Held

The fifth and last of the initial group socials held this week by the Sunshine Class of St. Paul's church, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Fruin, 304 Chamberlain street. She was assisted by Mrs. M. C. Rees. This social was for members living north of the river. Group officers elected were: Chairman, Mrs. Jennie Rees; secretary, Mrs. Agnes Beckingham; treasurer, Mrs. Blanche Howell. Refreshments were served cafeteria by the hostesses, from a table beautifully decorated in the class colors, light blue and gold, with a tall vase of yellow chrysanthemums in the center.
 The group socials have been very successful in every way. Next Tuesday evening the newly elected group officers will meet and draft recommendations to be presented to the class at its regular monthly meeting in the church parlors on Thursday, 15th, when the class officers will be elected.

The Sunshine Class has outgrown its old plan of organization, and, with the Diamond Jubilee of its church as an inspiration, is working out an enlarged program of leadership and activity.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Soda in Bluing.
 A lump of soda dissolved in the blue water when washing clothes will prevent any blue stain from remaining on the garments.

Silk Underwear.
 To wash silk stockings and silk underwear, first soak them for 10 minutes in fairly strong borax water and then wash in a suds of white soap with as little rubbing as possible.

Longer Wear.
 Silk and wool garments will last much longer if they are watched or cleaned before becoming too badly soiled.

Copper Kettles.
 Before cleaning copper kettles fill them with boiling water. They will polish more quickly.

Missionary Society with Mrs. Weigle

The Woman's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Nachusa met at the home of Mrs. Harry Weigle Thursday afternoon. Miss Anna Emmert, congregational thank offering secretary, had charge of the meeting, using as her topic, "Grateful Hearts." A number of reading proved very interesting. The thank offering service was portrayed in the Bible lesson which was in charge of Miss Emmert. The lesson study was led by Mrs. Shipple and the quiz was conducted by Miss Anna Emmert. Two new members were added to the society. A social hour followed during which Mrs. Weigle and Mrs. Gus Kohl served delicious refreshments.

SECTION NO. 1, M. E. AID SOCIETY

Section No. 1 of the M. E. Aid Society held a pleasant meeting yesterday with Mrs. C. P. Powell, 309 East Third street, and instead of the usual sewing the ladies made mince meat, as there is an increasing demand for the kind these ladies make. Refreshments were served and a pleasant half hour spent before dispersing.

Is Now the Mount Union Community Aid

The Mount Union Community Aid Society, formerly the "Kingdom Aid" met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wimer of Polo on Wednesday for an all-day meeting.

Twenty-four members were present to enjoy the hospitality of the Wimer home.
 Four large automobiles loaded down with members left Dixon at an early hour, arriving in plenty of time to enjoy the excellent hot dinner served by the hostesses, and rarely is one served a more delicious or elaborate dinner. The house was decorated throughout with beautiful yellow and white asters.

At 2 o'clock the meeting was called to order and at this time the name of the society was changed.
 Mrs. Jennie Dockery gave a number of vocal selections, and Mrs. Wither gave several readings. A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Wimer and Mrs. Acker, both of Polo. A number of letters and cards were read by the president, one very interesting one received from the Greenhouse committee thanking the ladies for their generous donation which they made to the Hines Hospital for disabled soldiers in Chicago.

A number of committees were appointed by the president to assist her in carrying on their good work. Mrs. Ruby Brink reported that the food sale was a decided success, netting the "Sunshine" committee a neat sum for their work. The meeting closed with all singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Leland Brink.

After another hour of social chat all voted the hostess a vote of thanks for the splendid time they had at her lovely home and at 3 o'clock started on their journey home, having spent a wonderful day and enjoyed a delightful trip.

Following were the committees appointed:
 Program Committee—Mrs. Ada Weigle, chairman; Mrs. Olive Heagy, Miss Margaret Brink, Mrs. Harry Klapprodt.

House Committee—Mrs. Jule Hill, chairman; Mrs. Ida Rosbrook, Mrs. Mary Hanson.

Flower Committee—Mrs. Ruby Brink, chairman; Miss Margaret Brink, Mrs. John Stanley.

Committee to Paint Mount Union Community House—Soliciting chairman, Mrs. Ida Rosbrook.

PARTY REFRESHMENT.

If you are entertaining your bridge club in the near future you are undoubtedly racking your brains for a new way to serve it.

Wouldn't a buffet service from the dining-room be a relief to both the hostess and guests? And if the party isn't a club the move from the tables, something a bit different to serve and to the dining-room makes for greater sociability among the guests. The setting of the table with flowers and candles can be made so lovely that the party of the whole party is enhanced.

Table Arrangement.

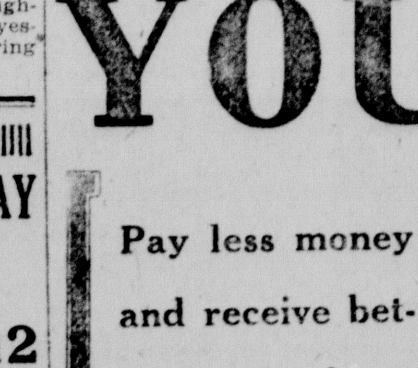

The meticulous care with which the table is arranged speaks an experienced hostess. Absolute order and neatness must prevail. The silver arranged in rows, the napkins in piles, the plates and cups in perfect balance at opposite sides or ends of the table and the sandwiches and cakes placed with geometrical precision on plates or trays—these details mean much to the ease of service as well as to the attractiveness of the table.

The centerpiece for the buffet luncheon table can be high, if desired. Candles make a lovely light in the late afternoon dusk and add to the festivity of the occasion. Four are used in the center of the table making a square, and one can be used in each corner of the table as the hostess sees fit. Shades are passe, so let the candles throw their gleams unshaded.

The menu may include tea and coffee or chocolate, a salad, sandwiches, an ice and cakes. Salted nuts, olives and bonbons are usually provided.

Two close friends are asked to "pour" one at each end of the table. Tiny individual salads are arranged on a platter for each guest to help herself. These salads would be quite

This book mark is such a pleasing one it might actually inspire the person who receives it to use it instead of leaving the poor old book open, flat on its back—or face—to designate its own place.

It's easy to make, too. Just wind a little soft silverglow yarn around a little cotton to make a head, and add hair and features to taste. Then cover a piece of buckram with ribbon to make the elongated costume. Braid a few strands of the yarn for arms and equip one extremity with a pencil and the other with a paper knife. The sandwiches also could be cut in diamonds and hearts.

The color scheme of black and red carries out the bridge idea.

Molded Red Salad.

One quart cranberries, 3/4 cups boiling water, 2 cups sugar, 2 cups Tokay grapes, 1 cup nut meats, two cups diced pineapple, lettuce, mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.

Molded Red Salad.

One quart cranberries, 3/4 cups boiling water, 2 cups sugar, 2 cups Tokay grapes, 1 cup nut meats, two cups diced pineapple, lettuce, mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.

Wash and pick over cranberries. Cook in boiling water until the berries burst. Strain through a sieve and add sugar. Soften gelatin in one-half cup cold water and pour boiling cranberry juice over gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Let stand until cool and add grapes, skinned and seeded, nuts pineapple. Stir until well mixed. When pineapple is set turn into a shallow pan to mold and become firm.

Cut with sandwich cutters in the shape of hearts or diamonds. Dip the cutters in cold water before using. Put each salad into a leaf of lettuce and surround with mayonnaise. Do not mask with the dressing as that would spoil the effect of the shape and color.

A black salad is made with prunes as the foundation.

Molded Black Salad.

One pound prunes, 4 cups water, 4 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 4 cups diced oranges, 1 cup nut meats, lettuce, mayonnaise.

Wash prunes. Soak in cold water for two hours and cook in same water. Simmer slowly until prunes are very soft. Rub through a strainer and add enough boiling water to make four cups. Soften gelatin in one cup cold water. Stir into boiling prune puree. Let stand until cool and beginning to set. Add oranges and nut meats. Mold, chill and cut as in preceding recipe, using clubs and spades for shaping.

Salad is attractive served in bright red apples. Small beads of uniform size can be boiled and hollowed out to hold a fish or meat salad.

Chicken Salad.

Three year-old chickens, 3 heads celery, 12 olives, 5 pimientos, 1 quart mayonnaise, 25 small beads, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika.

Clean and cook chickens in boiling salted water until tender. Cool, remove meat and cut in dice. Wash celery and cut in dice. Chill and dry between towels. Mince olives and cut pimientos in small pieces. Mix chicken, celery, olives and pimientos with salt and pepper and paprika and add mayonnaise to make meat.

Wash beads, being careful not to break the skin. Boil until tender. Drain and plunge into cold water. Slip skins and let cool. Scoop out the inside, leaving a shell about threeeighths of an inch thick. Chill and fill with chicken salad.

ON "YOUR DAILY PAPER."

You buy a newspaper for a few cents. You carelessly put your hand in your pocket and pay for it. You say "Nothing in it." Or you say "Hello, I see there's an earthquake in Japan."

And you think that you are SOME critic;
that you are a judge of affairs. Listen.

You read in The Dixon Evening Telegraph, for instance, for the first time, that Japan had been stricken—its metropolis wiped out. Do you know what that piece of news cost in life, in effort, in service, to lay before you for your few cents—that you would throw to a beggar

At 6:20 a. m., Saturday, September 1, the Radio Corporation of America telephoned
The Associated Press that Japan had been stricken by a great earthquake. It had happened at noon, Tokio time. In 20 minutes bulletins were on the wires to all newspapers.
This was the first information given to readers in America.

The Japanese earthquake presented some of the most extraordinary and perplexing problems in the bringing of news around the world from Japan to America. At a single stroke, the usual lines of communication across the Pacific from Japan to San Francisco, both cable and wireless, were put out of commission. This compelled an immediate readjustment so that the communication from Japan, hitherto across the Pacific, would now come in the other direction around the world,
across Asia, via Singapore, Suez, Gibraltar and London to New York, known as the Eastern route. Also another outlet across Asia was available, from Japan northward to Siberia, to Moscow-London-New York, known as the Northern route.

The London and New York offices thus became active centers, supplementing the work of San Francisco, in moving the mass of cable matter from Japan and nearby points, giving the first available details of the catastrophe.
In this the facilities of Reuters at many vital points in the Far East were combined with those of the AP in bringing forward a large number of cable despatches direct from Osaka, Kobe, Nagasaki, and other Japanese cities in close touch with the devastated area.

On the first day of the disaster, September
1, nine of these direct despatches from Japan
—eight during the day and one at night—
had thus circled the globe westward to London and New York. On the following day, Sunday, the 2d, no less than 28 of these direct despatches from Osaka and other Japanese and nearby cities came westward via London.
On Monday, the 3d, there were 21 such despatches via London.

Thus, in the first three days of the great disaster, 58 direct despatches came around the world westward via London, giving extended details direct from the cities in touch with the area of devastation. The Pacific route, even in its crippled condition, was at the same time bringing a large number of direct despatches from Japan and China points, these rising rapidly to 23 direct despatches on the 3d. Thus from both directions, from the West and from the East, these message from the stricken area flowed around the world and into America, giving a steadily increasing picture of the great disaster through its first crucial days.

The route across Asia was in the main the Eastern, via Suez, at the outset. But it soon developed that the Northern route, via Siberia and European Russia, was exceptionally fast. This route was freely used, making about six hours in linking Japan and China with London and New York.

In the first week of the disaster more than one hundred—exactly 101—direct despatches from the Orient had come by these Asiatic routes to London and New York, over and above the large and constantly increasing number of despatches coming across the Pacific to San Francisco.

This is what you get for a few cents.
A correspondent went 141 miles through hell to get a part of this and altogether it was the combined effort of an entire world of correspondents—all for You. To serve you with the story that perhaps you turn aside for the mere exclamation, "Hello; there's another earthquake in Japan."

THE TALE OF A COTTONTAIL

Down in Dixie Land the Twins came to a field that looked as though there had been a snow storm.
"Why, it's cotton!" said Nancy in surprise. "I always thought cotton grew in blue paper boxes that you buy at the drug-store."
"And I always thought it grew on Christmas trees," said Nick, laughing at his own joke.
"You two're just lak two other folkses I know about," said a new voice, and turning the Twins beheld an old colored man.
"Will you tell us about them?"
asked Nick quickly.
"Sholy! Sholy!" said the old man
kindly. "I'll tell you 'bout Mistah Rabbit an' Mistah Fox tradin' tails."
"Once upon a time, Mistah Rabbit met Mistah Fox takin' a walk."
"What you all doin', Mistah Rabbit?" asked Mistah Fox, polite like.
"Oh, jes' takin' a walk to exercise my tail," sez Mistah Rabbit, foh in those days he had a sho nuf fine long bushy tail!
"That's funny," sez Mistah Fox.
"That's exactly what I wuz doin', and he set down hard, for true as I tell you, he had no tail at all an' he didn't want Mistah Rabbit to see."
"Say, sez he, 'I saw a queer thing
today, Mistah Rabbit.'"
"What wuz that?" asks Mistah Rabbit.
"Why I saw a tree with cotton growing on it," sez Mistah Fox.
"Oh, go long, Yo nevah did," sez Mistah Rabbit. "No tree ever had cotton growin' on it!"

Soldiers of Peace

The men who fought our battles,
Who did the work of war;
They have not yet forgotten
What they are fighting for.
The Statesman and the Diplomat Conduct things as they may,
But the men who fought the battles
Will have the final say.

The men who fought our battles,
French, Latin, English, Yank,
The common ordinary lads
Of this Buck Private rank—
The boys who faced the Hell of it
And know what battles cost
Will not stand meekly by and see
Their mighty labors lost.

The men who fought our battles
And watched their Buddies die
Will see the dead did not in vain,
Or know the reason why;
And though the world is torn and racked
With suffering atrob.
The men who fought our battles
Are still upon the job.

And though Peace is a longer task,
They'll surely see it through.
Till all the dreams for which they fought
Shall finally come true.

The spirit that was in their hearts
Has neither changed nor passed,
And the men who fought the battles
Will win the Peace at last.

A THOUGHT
FOR TODAY

Reproach hath broken my heart;
And I am full of heaviness; and I looked for some to take pity, but there was none; and for comforters,
but I found none.—Ps. 69:20.

We are accustomed to see men de-ride what they do not understand and smile at the good and beautiful because it lies beyond their sympathies.

This Little
WorldLONDON
BY MILTON BRONNER

London—Quite a row has been raised here because a bus conductor the other day, in helping an elderly woman board the vehicle, said: "Come on, Ma!"

Indignant women wrote to the newspapers about it, saying they thought the man should be dismissed for insolence, impertinence and a few other sins. But the men all rallied strongly to the defense of the conductor.

Some of the busmen have a real sense of fun. The other day I saw an old woman hesitating about boarding.
She wanted to be sure that the bus went near a certain "Rosemary Lane" (cockney for Lane). My busman promptly tugged her aboard, saying:
"Walk right into the office. We will have a conference about it."

Another time an American woman
—young, good-looking, spick and span —stood on the step as if ready to jump off, as the bus approached her stop. The ponderous bus was trundling along about 30 miles an hour. The busman, who had sized her up, put a restraining hand on the American's arm, saying:

"Better wait till it stops, Miss. You are swift in your country, but we are not so slow ourselves."

"True ez I tell you," sez Mistah
Fox. "I seed it with these very eyes.
Ef I'm mistaken, I'll give you my tail,
so I will!"
"N nen Mistah Rabbit he spoke up 'n sez the very thing Mistah Fox knew he would. He sez, sez he, 'It's too silly to be true, Mistah Fox. If you all is right, why then I'll give you my tail.'"
"Done!" sez Mistah Fox. "Come on
'n I show you. You go first ez I can see ovah yo head."
"Bime by, sure enough, they came to a cottonwood-tree. There!" sez Mistah Fox. "Didn't I tole you? Yo owe me something." And befoh Mistah Rabbit could say 'yip' Mistah
Fox don hit off his tail and ran off lickety split to get his ole woman to tie it on 'im."
"An' ever since that day Mistah
Fox has had a fine tail, he has, and Mistah Rabbit isn't got any."
"Mistah Rabbit was so mad he danced 'round' and 'round' 'All righties" he sez. "I lost my fine tail
on account of some silly ole cotton,
so cotton can supply all de rabbits'
tails foh de nex two hundred years!"
"An' dat's why rabbits is called cottontails honeys. You can believe it or not. But don't ever argufy
'bout nothin' yo isn't sho about. Cotton doesn't grow on cottonwood trees
any more 'n it does on milkweed, but the blossoms looked enough like it to lose Mistah Rabbit a tail, so it did."

the police have been desperately seeking to find the place where booze was cached.

One day the police discovered where the liquor was stored. It was in the cellar of the villa that Haakon has at Bygdo. They not only confiscated the booze, but arrested one of the king's servants as an accomplice of the smuggler.

They had gone on in safety for months because the last place the police would suspect was the palace of the king himself.

Piccadilly Circus has just been labeled "The Scotsman's cinema," which requires a little explanation. "Cinoma" is English for "movie." And the Scotsman is the last of all English jokes about people who are close with their money.

Piccadilly Circus is the only place in London where there are lots of cathedrals, flashing, electric signs.
Therefore it is a sort of free show.

Appropos of the recent marriage of Lady Louise, Mountbatten to the crown prince of Sweden, I have just heard a yarn that is so good it ought to be true, if it isn't. It's a war-time story.

An English doctor newly attached to a base hospital in France, was walking along the corridors. Down on her knees, he noticed a rather plain-looking woman in nurse's uniform. She was scrubbing the floor.
The doctor got talkative.

"I hear said by—that a kinswoman of the queen is working here.
What kind of a person is she?"
"Oh, just an ordinary woman like myself," said the nurse, who went on scrubbing.

She was Lady Louise herself.

HEALTHY LUNGS

Healthy lungs simply mean lungs
that are unimpaired by disease germs and respond to the free elastic movements of the chest, ribs, intercostal muscles and the diaphragm in the process of breathing.

Strictly speaking, there are no healthy lungs. All are more or less impaired, through invading dust, inhaling smoke and disease during childhood. Germs and microbes of many kinds gain entrance to the lungs by mouth breathing.

The bronchi and trachea have hair,
like processes on the mucous membrane of their walls which do their best to expel minute foreign bodies
and microbes from entering the lungs.
But in spite of all efforts, these germs do get in and cause such diseases as influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis.

The lungs in a pure healthy condition are a pearly white. Eskimos have the nearest approach to such lungs. The lungs of the city dweller are gray. The coal miner's lungs are much darker, sometimes nearly approaching black.

This does not mean that almost everybody has diseased lungs. The great majority are in fairly good condition, due principally to the fact that the lungs are great in recuperative power. In fact, they are almost impervious in this respect as the overused and much abused heart.

To help your lungs in the fight against germs and disease you must
at all times carefully observe the correct rules of respiratory health. The chest will not work in first-class condition if bent out of shape and restricted through improper posture, incorrect muscular movements. By keeping up your gymnastics and deep breathing exercises you can aid your lungs to healthy old age.

Remember that the lungs are a great aid to the heart in keeping up a good blood circulation. Well-developed lungs, combined with good breathing exercises, are a wonderful aid to your heart in its work for a long life.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shaw entertained with a delightful Halloween party on Wednesday evening of last week. The guests were dressed as children and some of the young ladies were quite attractive with their long ringlets. Dainty refreshments were served and five hundred entertained
the guests who were: Prof. and Mrs.
R. P. Roberts, Messrs. and Mesdames
Harry Olmstead, Harold Frost, George
A. King, Louis John, Messrs. Dwight
Mynard, Don Wellman, Mrs. Walter Wellman, Miss Ruth Jerry.

The school faculty were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Shaw at a Halloween party last Friday evening. The decorations were striking and appropriate and a number of stunts which were in keeping with the occasion were enjoyed. A fine three course roast chicken dinner was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Harry Olmstead was in Mendota on Wednesday.

A community sing was held in the church last Wednesday evening. It was quite well attended and light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner, daughter Miss Marion, and son Andrew and

VALVE-IN-HEAD
Buick
Two-Passenger, Four-Cylinder
Roadster
The Standard of Comparison

A Buick for Business

With its roadsters for 1924, Buick has again created a new standard of roadster utility and attractiveness. Nor can the appearance of this four-cylinder two-passenger model convey in full its story. The famous Buick valve-in-head engine provides even greater flexibility and acceleration than before. The proved Buick four-wheel brakes assure more than ample safety for any emergency.

Business of today demands a sturdy, powerful, safe and dependable car—one that remains constantly in service. This new two-passenger, four-cylinder Roadster is one of Buick's contributions and answers to this demand.

ONE OF STUNTS TO BE SEEN AT MIDWEST AVIATION MEET HERE NEXT WEEK

One of world's most famous parachute jumpers, Dick Cruikshank, will be seen in the above picture doing the first step of his "double cutaway," which he will put on for the edification of patrons of the Midwest Aviation Meet at Dixon on Saturday Monday and Tuesday. In this death-defying stunt Cruikshank first cuts away from an airplane and then from the first parachute.

Reception Held at Steward for Pastor

Steward—A reception and social was given Friday evening at the church for the new pastor and his wife.

Mrs. J. M. Durin has been here from Chicago for a few days' visit. Perry Beitel is a patient at the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle where he underwent an operation on last Friday.

The W. F. M. Society will meet in the November meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Carney.

A car of potatoes was unloaded here Friday by Daum brothers. This is the second car of Minnesota potatoes they have unloaded this fall.

Tuesday evening of last week Mrs. Abe Landis and Marie Daum entertained a few friends at the Landis home. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Daum, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Landis, Alvin and Paul Datig and Mrs. Pete Daum of Rochelle. Five hundred provided entertainment for the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Landis playing high score.

The New Six 50 MOON Special

$2250

f. c. b. Dixon

As the news of the new Moon Special is flashed to the entire country another page is being written into the history of Moon achievement. Another triumph in motor car building. The car of the year!

To its present line, which includes the Six-40 series and the Six-58 series, Moon has added this complete new series of six-cylinder cars—the new Six-50 Moon Special, in six models, open and enclosed.

It has a powerful 54-horsepower new Moon-Continental motor of large bore and stroke—long wheel-base and sturdy frame. It is the car for those who love to be master of the road!

Essentially a Moon in design, with a distinctive color combination that appeals instantly. From its familiar silver radiator, recognized everywhere, back through every inch of its fine construction, it is the car you want to own.

The new Moon Special has that "something" which only a very few of the highest priced motor cars possess. Call it striking individuality—or dash—but it's more. More than sweeping lines—perfect as they are. More than the expression of great power and stamina, or darting speed.

It is all of these combined. And with true economy predetermined by a degree of mechanical excellence probably never before attained in a car of its price.

See it! Ride in it! Drive it! Feel the ease of its clutch and brake action and finger-tip gear shifting. Quick acceleration. Ease of steering. Smoothness of operation. Lounge-like comfort in front seat or rear. Request a demonstration at once.

AFFAIRS IN AND AROUND FRANKLIN GROVE REPORTED

Telegraph's Correspondent Records News of Community.

Franklin Grove, Nov. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dyrast entertained with a wild duck dinner, the result of a hunting trip of Mr. Dyrast, who in company with Dr. Chase of Dixon, were the guests of Dr. Thompson, of Chicago, who spent two days wild duck hunting at Lacon, Ill. They bagged in the two days fifty-six ducks. Thus the good feed at the Dyrast home. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dyrast, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Banker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dyrast and family.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hansen entertained the Bridge Club Tuesday evening. A two course luncheon was served. Will Crawford and Mrs. Clinton Mossholder received head prizes, while Mrs. Earl Fish and Charles Kelley enjoyed the consolation. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stephens of Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stultz.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Senger entertained Thursday evening with a three present were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stultz, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fish, Miss Helen Davidson and Helen Wellman. The Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor will go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Breunler for a six o'clock scramble supper, and will spend the evening in sewing and visiting. The trip will be made on the bus.

Mrs. Hannah Conlon, Chas. Howard, Misses Mae Conlon and Mae Howard formed a theatre party to Dixon Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Will Phillips and mother, Mrs. A. A. Schomaker, were visitors in Dixon, Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Ayers.

The Kilo Club will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Grace Stultz. The Priscilla Club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Lela Arnold.

John Emmert of Fairchild, Wis., after a visit at the home of his niece, Mrs. Will Phillips left this morning for his home.

Epworth League in the evening at 8:00. Preaching at 7:00. Rev. Senger is doing good work, his sermons are being appreciated, his solo work is excellent. Better make your plans to hear him at one of the services next Sunday. The Epworth League aim for an attendance of 40 next Sunday, there being 33 present last Sunday. It is said there will be a surprise made known at the Sunday night meeting. All should be there.

What might have proven a very bad fire happened at the Arthur Morris home Thursday evening. Gasoline from an engine exploded setting fire to a corn crib. Had it not been for the kind assistance of the neighbors it is most sure the barn and residence would have burned, but as it was only a part of the crib burned. Mr. and Mrs. Morris are certainly grateful to their neighbors who so kindly assisted.

Mrs. Fred Rudolph of Wisconsin is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bettin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagner, Mrs. Margaret Kassler and son, Gordon, Mrs. David Weigle and son, Junior, motored to Amboy, Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Jewett, of Amboy, was a guest Tuesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lives.

GREEN PLAYS LAST BIG HOME GAME

Vivian Green is bound to do his best against Wisconsin in the Illinois Stadium today because it is his last conference game at home. Green showed his mettle last Saturday when he more than held his own against King, the 225-pound guard from the Midway. Vivian weighs 190 pounds but is a pretty shifty gentleman. He seldom makes a bum pass. Centers do not receive the credit which they should as a rule but the Illinois realize Green's worth and he will get a big hand Saturday. Looks now as if the Wisconsin game will be the toughest in the Illinois schedule. The Indians are out to win and with nine rugged veterans they have a better chance than most people realize.

Sunday school had a very pleasant evening at the home of Miss Gwendolyn Dyrast. A six o'clock dinner was served which was greatly enjoyed by, Misses Ethel Maronde, Irene Ackerman, Irene Walker, Eunice Miller, Blanche Cowell, Francis Dyrast, Carrie Gross, Lois Crawford, Gertrude Weigle, Gwendolyn Dyrast, Lenora and Mildred Huyett, Winnifred Breunler, Miss Anderson. After the happy dinner an election of officers was held which resulted in electing Eunice Miller, President; Carrie Gross, vice president; Winnifred Breunler, sec-treasurer; Virginia Speelman, entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sheap entertained with six o'clock dinner Saturday, Ira Meredith and daughter, Miss Beatrice of Pocatello, Idaho, A. Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Forrest Meredith of this place.

Charles Middlekauff who was called here by the death of his sister, Mrs. A. Meredith, returned to his home in Harrisburg, Pa., Saturday afternoon. Frank Swickard, of Rockford, was a Franklin visitor last evening.

Arthur Kreitzer of Chicago visited relatives here yesterday.

Mrs. Miles Heck of Rochelle and Mrs. Jacob Fissel of Freeport, visited Monday with relatives here.

Rev. and Mrs. Warren Hutchinson of Steward were Franklin visitors yesterday.

Miss Helen Adams, who is attending the State Normal at DeKalb, was a week-end guest at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Irma Atkinson, who assisted very ably in the Sunday school orchestra Sunday morning with her violin.

Miss Mary Smith was home from the DeKalb normal over the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Speck entertained with a six o'clock dinner Friday, A. Meredith of this place, Charles Middlekauff of Harrisburg, Pa., Ira Meredith and daughter, Miss Beatrice of Pocatello, Idaho, A. Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Forrest Meredith of this place.

Mrs. Harold Kelley and James Conlon were Dixon visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wendell, a son, November 6.

Mrs. Metzgar and two sons, of Freeport, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley. Mrs. Metzgar and Mrs. Kelly are sisters.

Beginning November 11, continuing until Nov. 17, will be Children's Book Week throughout the state and the week will be observed by the Franklin library, by placing new books for the children in the library.

The week they are also offering to any school child a membership card for 50 cents, without the usual donation of a book. The card does not expire until January 1, 1925. This is a splendid offer and parents should see to it that the children are allowed to take advantage of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Baer of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Trostle.

Mrs. Margaret Kassler, Joseph Riddlesbarger, J. H. Bindle, Walter Riddlesbarger, O. O. Miller, David Scott, John Blocher, George Blocher, Josua Reed, Elmer Kline, Mary Lammann, Quimby Breunler and Miss Sarah Wolf assisted Mrs. C. W. Lammann in celebrating her birthday anniversary Monday afternoon. The time was spent in visiting during which refreshments were served. A lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums were presented to Mrs. Lammann.

Miss Margaret Brown who teaches school near DeKalb was home over the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Mae Brown.

Miss Emily Banker who is taking a course in music at the state normal at DeKalb was home over the week-end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Banker.

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid society are meeting today at the home of Mrs. Douglas Stultz.

Garnet Chapter, O. E. S., will entertain Monday night. A number of guests have been invited from the surrounding towns. At this meeting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Speck and Mrs. Douglas Stultz will be taken into the order.

Mrs. Jennie Reigle and Mrs. F. H. Hansen will entertain with bridge Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Brewer, of Oregon were in Franklin the first of the week visiting with relatives. Mr.

and Mrs. Brewer are moving their household goods from Oregon to Franklin where in the spring they expect to make their home.

Will Herbst and Miss Katherine Stultz spent Sunday in Mt. Morris at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Liezer.

Mrs. James Conlon, Mrs. Henry Cupp, Mrs. R. C. Gross are the splendid committee in charge for the Methodist supper to be held next Thursday night in the basement of the church from 5 to 7 o'clock. The menu—braised chicken, mashed potatoes, baked beans, cabbage salad, pickles, jelly, hams, pie and coffee. This surely is a splendid menu and we feel sure that the ladies will have a large crowd for their efforts.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Wingert and Mrs. Marcus Wingert were Mt. Morris visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goetzberger were Dixon visitors Thursday.

Friday was Mrs. Agnes Sunday's birthday anniversary, and that it might be one long to be remembered her daughters planned a surprise for her. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crawford and family of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Breunler and family, Donald Sunday, Miss Cele Stultz of this place. A lovely scramble dinner was enjoyed and the evening spent in visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Trugh of Lanark have rented the Miss Sarah Wolf home and will reside here for the future. We welcome these good people to our community.

Mrs. Charles Ives of Amboy was a guest Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. J. Blocher.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagner were guests of relatives in Ashton, Wednesday.

Mrs. Margaret Kassler and son, Gordon of Eagle Grove, Iowa, were guests the past week at the home of her sister, Mrs. David Weigle.

Mrs. Charles Crum and daughter, Miss Loren were Dixon visitors Saturday.

Mayor George Johnston transacted business in Dixon Tuesday.

The high school are planning to give a high class vod-vil in connection with the picture show Saturday night. The show promises to be a good one.

Misses Gertrude Weigle and Virginia Speelman were Dixon visitors Saturday.

Will Donegan of Morrison was a week-end guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hannah Conlon.

Mrs. Wilbur Breunler has resigned her position at teacher in the primary room of the public school. Mrs. Breunler is considered one of the very best primary teachers and it is with very much regret that she has resigned.

SMALL DOUBTS ANY EFFORT TO PARDON STEVENS

Says Reports Originate in Camps of His Enemies.

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 9.—Commenting upon the frequent reports of efforts to have him pardon the Chicago gunman Walter Stevens, who just the other day was lodged in state's prison at Joliet for shooting an Aurora policeman five years ago, Governor Small today said he doubted if any further attempt would be made to obtain a pardon for Stevens and added that he had paroled less criminals per number of convictions than any other Governor of Illinois. Governor Small ascribed the reports as to a possible pardoning of Stevens to political enmity, particularly on the part of the Chicago Tribune.

He said that his campaign of reelection presents the brightest outlook of any campaign he has ever engaged in and that the proposed $100,000,000 good roads bond issue is meeting with favor everywhere. Reviewing what had been done in the way of good roads since he had been governor, he declared that 1000 miles of hard roads were laid in Illinois last year, a mark not approached by any other state in the union. The roads were built he said at a cost of $27,000 a mile, saving enough from the generosity estimated $40,000 a mile to build 1240 more miles of paved roadway.

Says Tribune Lied

Governor Small stopped in Aurora over night on the way to Woodstock when he addressed a good roads meeting today.

"The Chicago Tribune," he said, "over lied in connection with my hard roads policy which I am making an issue in southern Illinois. I refused to take their orders to build roads at $40,000 a mile, and through my efforts they were built for $27,000 a mile. The Chicago Tribune lies to the farmer that I could not build the roads I promised are difficult to believe when the farmer sees the roads I have built in his county and is using them every day. I told them let Len Small be governor and he'll build the roads. I've done that."

The Governor said he had not paid much attention to the recent judicial election in Chicago and did not attach much political significance to the outcome. He said he did not know Mary Bartelme was running until he read it in the papers. He said he was not familiar with the work she had done, but that "many women judges have made good."

---Lest We Forget
November 11, 1918

Think back. Remember that memorable day---just five years ago---when the sun came over the horizon with an unexplainable new brightness? The heavens cleared and all the world breathed a heavy sigh of relief. The war was over. Humanity had been saved. A new future loomed before us.

The tension of many long days of uncertainty had been loosened. Folks gave vent to their feelings. Smiles shone through the tears. Joy knew no bounds. VICTORY! Victory---well earned, indeed--was ours.

So, today---the Fifth anniversary of that never-to-be-forgotten occasion---let's you and me, Mr. Dixon Citizen, turn our thoughts to those who made possible that great Victory. Let's honor the lads who served with the colors---those lads who sacrificed all else so that we might enjoy Peace, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness to their fullest extent.

And when the eventful hour strikes---11 a. m.---let's doff our hats, face the east and give a silent prayer for those of our defenders who so unselfishly laid their lives on the altar of Patriotism for Humanity's sake.

'Tis but our bounden duty.

America's Favorite Songs

OLD FOLKS AT HOME.

"Old Folks at Home," has been described as probably the most widely known and beloved song. It was written by one of two national air-ship of great crises. This is the estate of Harold Vincent Milligan, biographer of Stephen C. Foster, the song's composer. It has been translated into every European language and into many Asiatic and African tongues.

Written in 1851, the first year of Foster's married life, the song reached high sales within a few years and the composer's royalties were more than $15,000. A big sum for a song in those days, but insignificant when compared with the $50,000 in royalties brought by the first sale alone of copies of "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

The first draft of the song was entitled "Way Down Upon the Old Plantation" and it sang of the Pedee river instead of the Swannee. Foster doubted the suitability of the word "Pedee" and asked his brother, Morrison Foster, to suggest a two-syllable name of a southern river. Morrison suggested Yazoo, but that was ejected as unmusical. Opening an atlas, the two brothers scanned the map of the United States. Finally they hit upon the Swannee, a little stream in Florida. Then Stephen Foster proceeded to immortalize a stream that he had never seen. And Broadway song writers have been doing so ever since.

What is your favorite American song? Send your choice to Kenneth S. Clark, Community Service, 315 Fourth Avenue, New York, as part of a nation-wide vote.

Way down upon de Swannee ribber, Far, far away,
Dere's whar my heart is turning ebbin', Dere's whar de old folks stay.
All up and down de whole creation, Sadly I roam,
Still longing for de old plantation, And for de old folks at home.

All de world am sad and dreary, Oh'ry whar I roam,
Oh! darkies, how my heart grooves weary,
Far from de old folks at home.

All 'round de little farm I wander'd When I was young,
Den many happy days I squander'd, Many de songs I sung,
When I was playing wid my brudder, Happy was I;

Oh! take me to my kind old mudder, Dere let me live and die.

One little hut among de bushes, One dat I love,
Still sadly to my memory rushes, No matter whar I rove,
When will I see de bees a-hummin', All 'round de comb?
When will I rear de banjo tummin', Down in my good old home?

SMILES

Something in the cheery lilt of the music, as well as the mild sentimentality of the words made "Smiles" a war-time favorite with the men in France no less than the folk at home. These same qualities have made the song endure among the established favorites for community singing.

Among the A. E. F. the song was sung not only in its original form but with numerous parodies.

"Smiles" was written by J. Will Callahan and Lee S. Roberts, who have several popular song successes to their credit. Their history of the song exemplifies a method of exploitation that has more than once been found successful in the popular music field. Sometimes a small publisher issues a song which strikes one of the big publishers as having the elements of a popular hit.

The latter then buys the song outright for a sum which is frequently fairly large. The big publisher then exploits the song with all the varied means at his command. If his campaign is successful, he more than makes good on his investment. Some such process was that rough little "Smiles" went on its road to popularity.

There are smiles that make us happy, There are smiles that make us blue,
There are smiles that steal away the tear-drops, As the sunbeams steal away the dew.
There are smiles that have a tender meaning, That the eyes of love alone may see,
But the smiles that fill my life with sunshine Are the smiles that you give to me.

Northern Illinois Should Raise More Apples

By Horton B. Green

I notice large quantities of apples are being shipped into Dixon for the retail trade. Most of these I saw are rather unripe. They are Jonathans and Red Delicious, so are selling readily at $1.75 per box. I do not know how large the boxes should be, they would bring $2.00 to $2.50 a box, especially for eating. There is no reason for raising small apples except a failure to thin them. The Jonathan bears heavily every other year, and unless thinned, the fruit will be undersized. The Delicious bears heavily every year, under proper care and usually means thinning in order to get those large sized specimens that you see in the confectionery stores that retail from five to ten cents each.

Cities the size of Dixon in Illinois ought not to be obliged to buy apples from away; there ought to be ample quantities produced locally to supply all our home trade. I do not know how much the boxes in question hold but I suppose considerably less than a bushel; probably three pecks or maybe less. I presume that they cost our retailers around $1.25 per box. Good bearing trees, ten years old, will produce from eight to 15 bushels to the tree; that would be from ten to 20 or more boxes; at $1.25 a box, it would mean an average of $12 to $20 a tree. There are approximately 50 trees to an acre; counting only 25 to bear on an average each year, you will then have a ten acre orchard.

more clear money than you can possibly get out of 80 acres of any kind of grain. You say: "Yes, that looks good in print, but it will not pan out." But it is panning out in all parts of Illinois and the central west. What you want is the right varieties of apple trees and then give them the proper care. I find that most of the trees around Dixon are not sprayed. The owners seem to think it too much trouble, or that the work has to be done at times when other work is crowding. That, perhaps is true, but I am trying in these letters on intensive farming to tell you to plan ahead and not try to work so much land. Sell off some of it or rent it out and give plenty of time to the care of your orchard at just the time it needs such care. You will clean up dollars where you now make half dollars, and quarters. In my judgment you'll have to learn to farm less land and do it better and raise such things as will suit best and bring ready cash and more of it. I will give anyone a pamphlet telling how to prune and spray your trees free of charge if you will come for it, or tell me where I can see you. I would like to live in Dixon long enough to see a splendid orchard on every farm, and see the big farms divided by two, four or eight smaller farms with a good orchard, a fine flock of hens and a good truck patch on each. Such would sure be money makers.

GRIDIRON FACTS

By Billy Evans.

THE QUESTION—
Center of team in possession of the ball has a habit of making a feint to snap the ball. This act is merely a slight movement of the ball, which is usually preliminary to snapping it back. The opposing player, eager to hit first and get the jump on the play, are drawn off-side by the feint of the center. The moment the center sees the opposing team is off-side, he passes the ball to one of his backs, who is nearby. The claim is then made by the team in possession of the ball for an off-side penalty. What about this play?

THE ANSWER—
Such deception is often tried by a "foxy" center in a pinch, and sometimes successfully pulled. As a matter of fact, the snapper back is the guilty party. Instead of the defensive team being off-side and suffering a penalty, the team in possession of the ball is penalized if the referee solves the net. There is a loss of five yards for such deception.

Give Rural Doctors' Maintenance Needs

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 9.—"Reasonable living conditions," are necessary to restore permanently physicians and surgeons to rural communities, Dr. H. P. Colwell of Chicago, today told the convention of the American Country Life Association, in session here. Dr. Colwell is secretary of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

"The objectionable features of country practice," said Dr. Colwell, "are loss of well-to-do patients, long drives, bad roads, hard work, loss of income, increased expenses, poorer facilities for practice, no hospitals, no libraries, no laboratories, few churches, poorer schools and loss of time or opportunity for professional or personal development."

"What wonder, therefore, that the country doctor after struggling in vain against the rising tide of difficulties finally decides to follow his dis-

A JAZZED ODE

'Twas a cold October morning,
Last September in July,
The moon lay thick upon the ground,
The mud alone in the sky.

The flowers were singing sweetly,
And the birds were in full bloom,
When I went down to the cellar,
To sweep an upstairs room.

The time was Tuesday morning,
At Wednesday, just at night,
I saw a thousand miles away,
A house just out of sight.

The walls projected forward,
The front was round the back,
It stood between two others,
And was whitewashed black.

pearing clientele to the city. It is quite clear why the young physician, after graduating from medical school, usually in debt for his medical training, prefers to, of from necessity, must remain in the city rather than go to the country.

"Census figures show that of the total of physicians in the United States 63 per cent are in cities of 5,000 or greater population, leaving only 37 per cent in cities or towns of less than 5,000. In other words in cities of 5,000 or above there is one physician for every 541 people.

"To permanently restore doctors for rural communities requires restoration of reasonable living conditions in those districts."

PHYSICAL CULTURE

The twenty-fifth anniversary number of Physical Culture Magazine is a noteworthy number check a book with unusually interesting features. "Fighting-fit at Fifty-five" by Bernard Macfadden, "Why Fat People Die Young," "Jesus a Physical Culturist," "The Body Beautiful," "The Leaders of the Nation Congratulate Bernard Macfadden" by Arthur Leslie, "Insulin for Diabetes?" "What Next?" by Dr. Edwin F. Bowers, "All Is Over but the Funeral" by Bernard Macfadden, "I Have Made a Beautiful Woman of My Daughter," by Mabel Gordon and "I Was Thin as a Pin—Now I'm Plump."

Youths Bound Over for Theft of Auto

Elgin, Ill., Nov. 9.—Godfrey Toman, 16, and Frank Vopelka, 18, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, were bound over to the circuit court of Kane County today, under bonds of $2,000 each, charged with having stolen an automobile, a Ford coupe, the property of Ora Leitner of this city. Unable to pay bond the boys are being held in the Kane County Jail at Chicago.

Apprehended Wednesday night at River Forest, a suburb of Chicago, one hour after they had stolen the machine, in Elgin, the boys confessed to authorities of having stolen machines at Clinton, Iowa, and Savanna, Ill. Both were abandoned, they said, when the gasoline supply was exhausted. The boys told authorities they ran away from home following disputes with their parents.

"THE FOOL"

BY CHANNING POLLOCK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind of his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons.

"Overcoat Hall," a refuge for the unemployed, is established by Gilchrist, and apartments with baths for the poor are maintained at a minimum rent.

George Goodkind, Jerry's father, calls and orders Daniel to cease seeing Clare, who frequently visits the hall to help Gilchrist.

Paul Hennig comes in and warns Daniel that her husband is out to "get" him. Mary Margaret, a little cripple girl, is Daniel's helper.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I know you do," said Clare. There was a certain doleful in her tone, a certain self-pity, that told of something she knew. The two women looked at each other for a moment. Each gave something of commiseration to the other in that exchange of glances between these two who had been betrayed, in such different ways, yet simultaneously. It was Pearl who turned away.

"I guess you ain't got much use for me," she said, quailing.

Clare looked at her as though sharing the pity she had for herself.

"Why?" she questioned, calmly, forlornly. "What's the difference between us?"

Pearl turned toward her with eyes that did not understand. Somehow she felt that there was no bitterness here, but she did not know why. She had no answer to make. She backed nervously to the door and opened it.

"Well—goodnight," she said, bewildered.

CHAPTER XIX
Temptation

CLARE had turned fatigued, worried, appealing eyes toward Gilchrist. They met a gentle reproach.

"Clare, I asked you," he began, "if nowhere else to go," she said, simply. "I've left him."

"Left Jerry?" His inquiry was incredulous.

"Yes," she replied calmly. "For good. He struck me."

"No," Daniel protested.

"Yes," she returned. "Here—in the breast. And he's lying now—brandy-soaked and half-conscious—across the foot of my bed." She put her hands to her face as if to hide the light.

"I can't believe—" Gilchrist was taken aback.

"He's been drinking," she went on in a monotone of despair, "more and more. And, of course, there have been women—from the beginning. All kinds of women. That woman—she waved toward the door—"

"salesgirl, stenographers, women of our own class. Do you remember—in your church—Mrs. Thornbury?"

"He's been quite open about her. To-night we were going out to dinner. He came to my room—drunk—and babbled that he'd refuse to go until she was invited. Then I refused to go, and he accused me of—of you—struck me with his fist."

"He accused—you?" Daniel straightened.

"Yes. And then he tried to take me in his arms. Night after night he'd come to me drunk, and hold me in his arms. She paused in reflection. "And I said once there was nothing more degrading than poverty."

She looked up at him. "I've come to see your way at last," she said, in surrender. "In the past two years I've learned what degradation means. I've come to realize that the material things are nothing—and that love is all. It isn't too late?"

"It's never too late," said Daniel earnestly.

"I know you'd say that," she said, with relief in her tone. "I'll share your work—your want—if need be—gladly. Only take me away."

"But my work is here," he replied, not quite comprehending.

"We can't stay here," she protested. "Jerry suspects us. He's made his father suspect us. Do you know what they're planning to do now?" Daniel nodded. "Jerry wants to send you to an asylum. He said so tonight. And he'll do it, too. The strange thing about Jerry is that with his mind going, and his health gone, he still gets what he wants."

She appealed to him again: "Take me away, and we'll have five or six rooms and such other."

"Clare!" Daniel was a man torn asunder.

"Don't you understand that I'm offering myself to you?" she asked, bewildered herself now.

"Yes, I understand," he said, simply.

"I love you," she breathed. "I need you. I've always loved you, and needed you, even when I lied to you—and myself. This is our last chance for happiness. I've been blind and stupid and cruel, but it isn't too late." She lifted tired arms toward him. "Take me and hold me, and we'll both forget."

"YOU FANATIC!" SHE SNEERED.

"Forget?" He looked at her wonderingly.

"Forget everything," she said. "Won't you take me, dear?"

Daniel looked at her tenderly, intently.

"I can't believe—" he answered, without a sign of emotion.

"Don't you want me?" she faltered.

"No." He did not take his de-liberate eyes from her.

"That's not true," she protested. "You love me. You've always loved me. Look at me and deny it if you can."

"I don't deny it," he said simply. "I love you."

"Then take me," she urged.

"I love the good in you—the good you're trying hard to kill," he said with earnestness. "I love you because you're big enough to do what's right."

"What is right?" she asked bewilderedly.

"Go back to your husband," Daniel spoke with cold deliberation.

She flushed and straightened. "I'd rather die," she flared.

"I'd rather you died—than this," he said cheerlessly.

Anger stormed and swept her.

"You fanatic," she sneered. "You blind fanatic."

"I love you," he said simply.

"Love," she cried contemptuously. "You don't know what love means. You're only half a man."

"And I'm praying to God with all my strength," he returned, "to save us from the other half."

"For what?" she demanded resentfully.

"For you—and him—and for my people."

Faintly there came the voice of Mary Margaret singing to the cadence of her crutch-steps. "For the little girl out there."

"And for them you'd send me back to degradation?" she mocked.

"That little girl's known degradation that you and I will never know," she said. "And she's singing. Her confident companions are poverty and pain—and she's singing. She's crippled. She may never walk again. And she can say 'God's will be done.' She believes in me. I can't disappoint her and the rest. I'm going on with my job—and you're going back to yours."

"You mean Jerry?" she asked.

"Yes," was the answer.

"You think that's God's will?" She was helpless and hopeless now.

"I know it's your job," he said firmly. "You took it with your eyes open. It's up to you to see it through."

"Must I go on forever paying for one mistake?"

"Somebody must pay for our mistakes. That it was wrong to make a bargain doesn't make it right to break the bargain when we get tired of it."

"I don't know what to do," she moaned.

"Play the game," Gilchrist said convincingly. "Go back to that poor, mistaken man lying across the foot of your bed—his mind going and his health gone. Bear your punishment and help him to bear his. That's your duty."

"Duty, duty, duty," she echoed mechanically. "What about happiness?"

"There is no other happiness," he returned. "Oh, don't you see, my dear, that's been your greatest mistake! You've been always crying—'woe and the world—I want to be happy.' Happiness is service. Happiness is clean living and clean thinking and self-forgetfulness and self-respect."

"And love?" She asked like a child.

"Love isn't all," he said. "Not the love you mean. You said 'Take me, and we'll both forget.' Could we have forgotten promises unkept, faith disappointed, aspirations unrealized?" He smiled tenderly. "No, my dear, love isn't all, not even happiness. There's something bigger, and better, and more important, and that something is—duty."

"The world doesn't think that," she said doubtfully.

"That's what's wrong with the world."

"You want me to go back?" She was calm now—very calm.

"I want you to be right," he said.

She paused undecidedly. Then she flung her head back and looked at him.

"Well then—" she said. "—I'm going through. I'm going back and play the game—with you in my heart always. You don't forbid that, do you?"

"You are in mine always," he told her.

"And this isn't goodbye," she looked at him wistfully. "Sometime—somewhere—in this world or out of it—there must be a moment—and a place—to retrieve mistakes. Good night."

He opened the door for her and held out his hand.

"Clare—" he said. She knew what it meant. "Good night," he added.

"And—" she looked back at him—"thank you."

CHAPTER XX
A Pitiful Confession

WEARIED by the sheer effort of renunciation, Gilchrist sank into a chair. There was no smile on his face now. There was agony written in its fine lines.

Save for the tears, there was something of desolation there. The eyes, though, still held the spark of a fire that seemed to have burned itself out in the rest of him.

Mary Margaret found him huddled there, his face in his hands, motionless.

Rehearing on I. C. Ry. "Cut Off" is Allowed

Washington, Nov. 9.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the request of the League of Illinois Central Municipalities and the State of Illinois for a re-opening of the Illinois Central Railroad's application to construct a cut-off line from Edgewood, Illinois, to Fulton, Kentucky. Re-argument will take place here December 2.

The Illinois Central proposes to construct the cut-off at a cost of approximately $16,000,000. Objection, because Cairo and other Illinois cities feared they would lose their position on the road's present main line, arose. In addition, by a characteristic of its corporate organization, the present main line is part of a revenue producer for the state which secures a portion of its annual profits. The state opposed the cut-off on the ground that traffic would be diverted to the new line. The commission previously had granted the Illinois Central authority to proceed with construction.

Mt. Morris Man New Sec. Mystic Workers

Clinton, Iowa, Nov. 9.—Robert Toole, of Mt. Morris, Illinois, has been appointed Supreme Secretary of the Mystic Workers of the World, with headquarters in Fulton, Illinois. It was announced today by President A. A. Bentley. The latter explained that the Supreme Board of Directors yesterday received the resignation of Supreme President Otto Hammerlund, which followed that of former Supreme President D. E. Smith, submitted and accepted late last month, but instead of accepting Mr. Hammerlund's resignation, temporarily released him from his duties. Mr. Toole is editor of the Mystic Workers official publication.

MANY CITIES WILL OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY WITH PROGRAM

Nationally Prominent Men to Take Part in Celebrations.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Signings of the Armistice will be brought "home" to Illinois in the next few days by programs arranged throughout the state in which nationally prominent men will speak.

Springfield, the capital city, will hear former Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. The assistant secretary of the navy and the assistant secretary of the navy and the assistant secretary of the navy will accept the invitations to speak here.

At Chicago, French commander, Antonin Barthelme, French commander, will accept the invitation to speak at the celebration in Chicago, Nov. 11. M. Barthelme will address a gathering on the subject, "The Unifying Influence of the War." M. Barthelme has served in the French diplomatic service in London, Geneva, and Southampton, in addition to his present station.

The fifth anniversary of the close of the World War will be marked in Elgin by an address by Senator McMillin McCormick. In the evening Senator McCormick will speak to audiences in Dundee, Carpentersville, and Dundee, under the auspices of the Dundee-Carpentersville Post of the American Legion.

Rockford Celebration

Taking the attitude that "military training is one of the most valuable guarantees of peace" and condemning opposition to military training, the Walter R. Craig Post of the American Legion, Rockford, has arranged "one of the biggest demonstrations ever held in Rockford."

"The largest flag in the world," according to the Ottawa, Ill. Post of the American Legion, "will be hung in the armory here as part of the decorations for the fifth annual Armistice Day ball, November 14." The flag, borrowed from a Chicago business house, is 100 feet long, 50 feet wide, weighs 250 pounds, and costs $200, it is said.

A mass meeting in the morning, formal military ceremonies with a salute to be fired on the levee by a squad from the Rock Island arsenal, and a parade in the afternoon will form a part of Rock Island's Armistice Day celebration, Monday, November 12.

Macomb has provided posters, advertising its celebration, to be held November 12, which are being placed in surrounding towns and communities. Eighty-five dollars in prizes has been offered for parade floats.

Freeport Man Who Lost Memory Home

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 9.—Matthew A. Pley, head of the Freeport Fruit & Produce Company, who disappeared on October 24, arrived home yesterday from Portland, Ore., from which place he wrote to his wife last week, after he had organized a county-wide search for him without results.

Pley's mind is a blank as to what happened from the time he left home until he awoke in a hospital at Spokane, Wash., a week ago. He left the hospital for Portland, where he sent a message to his wife.

Pley's physician is unable to account for his lapse of memory.

"Economy in office and reduction of taxes. I remember of hearin' that ole ruse when I was a boy," says Uncle Niles Turner, 103. Silence can't be misquoted, but it kin be misinterpreted.

INJUSTICE OF TAXATION IS THEME OF MEET

Age-Old Problem is Before M. & M. Fed. Tax League.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Taxation, an age-old problem, the solution of which has been sought wherever its application has been felt, was considered today by the tax relief convention of the Manufacturers and Merchants Federal Tax League, held here.

Improvement in agricultural conditions can only be expected "when the present system of taxation is changed through the shifting of taxes from industry to unearned incomes," Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, for Wisconsin, declared in an address.

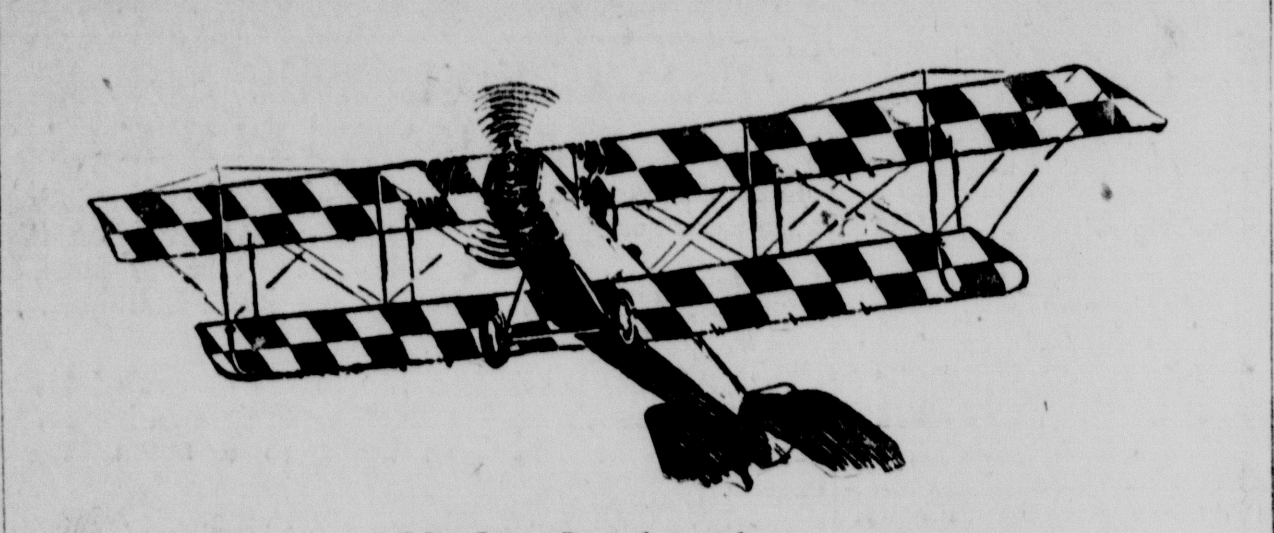

A "serious, chronic and increasingly acute business disease is being caused by a faulty system of taxation, the inevitable tendency of which is to destroy business," M. S. Blauvelt, president of the Indiana Coke & Gas Company of Terre Haute, Ind., said. He compared taxation with alcoholism. Just as the person who is a chronic alcoholic does not realize his weakened condition, so business, he said, does not recognize the effects of taxation.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF PEACE DAWNS ON TROUBLED WORLD

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Nov. 10.—Five years ago, with shouts of joy, the nations hailed the armistice as the harbinger of peace, returning to a war-torn world.

And today?

France, with nearly 1,000,000 men under arms, holds military sway over a considerable section of Germany, seeking to extort vast but indefinite advantages which anxious spectator powers, their own safety jeopardized, are trying, none too hopefully, to compromise.

Germany, rent by secession movements, trembles on the verge of civil war.

England gazes with apprehensive eyes on the rise of French military power and the threat of fresh convulsions in central Europe; on an Ireland where, despite the re-establishment of a sort of tranquility, the jails still overflow with political prisoners; on seething unrest in India.

Italy, her troops at grips with rebellious natives in colonial Africa, already has once imperiled the world's safety through the imperialistic policy of her virtual dictator, Mussolini, against whose rule domestic discontent slowly gains strength despite censorship, oppressive decrees and violence.

War and Ruin

In Spain another military dictator, recently elevated to authority by virtue of a near-revolution, fulfills his pledge to increase the vigor of Spanish warfare in Morocco.

Greece, defeated by Turkey, forced to pay heavy indemnity and submit to humiliating conditions exacted by Italy for an offense no attempt was made to prove against her, states economic ruin in the face and struggles weakly to stave off revolution.

Turkey, driven from Europe, was won her way back by the sword and again endangers Near Eastern stability.

Bulgaria, her peasant premier overthrown and killed, has put down one attempt at counter-revolution and remains in the hands of a militaristic governmental group.

Hungary, with a military dictator at the helm, eagerly awaits the chance to win back by a fresh resort to force what she lost in the World War.

Old World Jealousies

Jugoslavia, like Rumania, alert against Hungarian aggression, disputes with Italy for an Adriatic port and watches the Bulgarian militarist regime jealously.

Poland, girl for war, keeps an uneasy glance on the soviet power to the eastward.

Russia's communistic autocracy admittedly representing a minority, maintains itself by force within, and schemes for an extension of its social and economic doctrines beyond its present jurisdiction.

China is still torn by dissension between north and south and by baneful

SAY PEOPLE!

Do you know that during the first eight months of this year 181 manufacturers report they have built 2,689,837 automobiles and trucks.

With the 14,000,000 cars licensed in the United States and over 3,000,000 million cars and trucks being manufactured each year, do you realize what it means to the CITY where the BEMENT POSITIVE DRIVE DIFFERENTIAL IS MADE? Even if only FIVE per-cent of the cars are equipped with it.

Men prominent in the automotive industry, say that in three years EIGHTY per-cent of the cars driven will be equipped with THIS DEVICE. Figure it out how many MEN will be needed to manufacture the DIFFERENTIAL to supply the demand.

Gilbraith Shaft to Be Dedicated By A. L.

Cincinnati, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—High officials of the government, representatives of allied governments and hundreds of Legionnaires from all parts of the country will be present at the dedication of the Gilbraith Memorial here tomorrow, the memorial committee has announced.

Colonel Fred W. Gilbraith, Jr., the second national commander of the American Legion, lost his life in an automobile accident. The memorial to be unveiled in his memory is in the form of a monument located in Eden Park, on a site which commands a view of the Ohio river and the Kentucky Hills.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, who excelled to be present, has been advised to attend an invitation to President Coolidge that the President "regrets he cannot be with you, he having made a positive rule that he will not make any speeches until after the first of the year."

"Were it not for this he would certainly accept," Colonel Roosevelt's message is quoted as having said, "because of his high admiration for Gilbraith and his strong sympathy with and appreciation of the veterans and the American Legion."

SINGING PAYS

London—Street singers are gleaming a golden harvest in London just now. A young Manchester man, fined in court, went into the streets, sang and earned enough to pay the fine. Many are refusing offers of 8 pounds a week in orchestras to sing in the gutters and snatch the passerby's shilling.

Australia has a standing army of only 3200.
